

2022-23 ANNUAL SALARY PROGRAM PROCEDURES

Memorandum From:

Laurie K. McCauley, Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs

Geoffrey Chatas, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer

Date: June 27, 2022

General Information

This announcement includes instructions for preparing the 2022-23 annual salary program recommendations for individuals in the Career Family Classification System, as well as those in faculty and primary job families. Please note that pay increases for faculty or staff members in positions covered by collective bargaining agreements are governed by those labor contracts rather than the instructions in this memorandum.

Implementation Dates

Annual salary program increases for eligible faculty and staff for 2022-23 will be effective as follows:

- August 21, 2022, for staff paid bi-weekly (first pay date at the new rate will be September 9, 2022); and
- September 1, 2022, for faculty and staff paid monthly (first pay date at the new rate will be September 30, 2022).

Due Dates and Routing

Ann Arbor Campus units are encouraged to submit merit increases, lump sum recommendations, and performance ratings (optional) via the file-attach method available through HRMS. The process for using the file-attach method can be found in My LINC at Wolverine Access <http://wolverineaccess.umich.edu/>. Once signed into My LINC, enter “pay rate change” in the activity search box and press “Enter.” The procedures and templates will then appear. Please reference Payroll cutoff dates at <http://www.finance.umich.edu/finops/payroll/forms/cutoffsdeadlines> to ensure timely system load.

Comp Rate Change via the PAR workflow may be used for instances where the file-attach method cannot be used (see HRRIS Job Aids), then select the google document “PAR Transaction: Comp Rate Change (Job Data)”. See Payroll cutoff dates above for system load information (Biweekly Pay Frequency 2022/Monthly Pay Frequency 2022).

Units within Michigan Medicine, and the regional campuses should note that due dates and routing are different from those detailed in this memorandum. They should consult the specific procedures distributed to leadership or the regional campus instructions.

Merit Considerations

Meritorious performance is the most important consideration in recommending individual increases. Different increase amounts should be determined on the basis of an evaluation of the performance of each faculty and staff member relative to the requirements of their position.

NOTE: In keeping with the university’s COVID-19 vaccination policy and the associated enforcement requirements, there should be no processing of base and/or one-time payments associated with merit for those who were issued discipline that included being ineligible for September 2022 merit as a result of non-compliance with the vaccination and booster mandates. Additionally, units that have an employee(s) that are not compliant who transfer, or are transferring, to another unit should communicate with the receiving unit with regard to the compliance status of the employee(s).

Information on the university's COVID-19 vaccination requirement can be found at the following site: <https://hr.umich.edu/working-u-m/my-employment/covid-19-information-employees/u-m-covid-19-vaccination-requirement>.

Affirmative Action and EEO in Performance Evaluations

The University of Michigan is committed to meeting its Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity goals and objectives. Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity responsibilities are important components of all supervisory and management positions. Accordingly, the performance evaluations of staff members who have supervisory and management responsibilities need to include an assessment of their effectiveness in meeting their Affirmative Action recruitment goals and their success in retention of a diverse work force.

Salary Equity Considerations

Each Executive Officer, Dean or Director of a major operating unit has the responsibility of assuring that equitable salary relationships, and their appropriate documentation, are to be maintained within their area as follows:

- Appropriate salary relationships should be maintained for staff within the same classification or related classifications, taking into consideration distinguishing factors such as performance, skills, and experience.
- Special care should be exercised to ensure that salary differences are neutral with regard to race, gender, age, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, FMLA status, and other categories protected by state and federal law.
- Unit salary programs should consider the distribution of staff members' pay and performance and incorporate appropriate recognition of the needs of the lowest paid. UHR can provide advice on various strategies.

Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) Salary Level Threshold

The current FLSA exemption tests require a salary level threshold of $684/week (the equivalent of $35,568/year). For employees in part-time exempt positions, the University Human Resources' (UHR) Compensation and Classification team will continue to centrally monitor for compliance and notify units when an individual's part-time salary (compensated rate) puts them below the FLSA exempt salary threshold to offer options.

Salary Ranges

Units may develop pay ranges that support their compensation philosophy as part of the Career Family Classification System using labor market referenced data available through HRMS.

The University expects units to ensure that all regular staff members have an hourly rate of at least $15.00/hour (the equivalent of $31,200/year for full-time).

Optional Lump-Sum Payment

Each Executive Officer, Dean or Director of a major operating unit may elect to pay faculty or staff members a lump-sum one-time salary supplement. Therefore, an individual merit increase may consist of (1) an adjustment to base salary, (2) a one-time lump-sum payment, or (3) a combination of base salary adjustment and lump sum payment. If a unit elects to grant a lump-sum payment, the following guidelines apply:

- Only staff demonstrating satisfactory performance may be considered for a one-time, lump-sum salary supplement payment (earning code: SAL).
- A one-time lump-sum payment is a non-recurring expense.
- One-time lump-sum payments may be paid at any time during the 2022-23 program year for faculty and staff.

- A 2022-23 lump-sum salary payment may not be considered to be an advance against a 2022-23 base salary increase.

NOTE: As already mentioned in the Merit Considerations section above, lump-sum payments associated with merit are not permitted for those who were issued discipline that included being ineligible for September 2022 merit as a result of non-compliance with the vaccination and booster mandates.

Optional Performance Ratings Upload

Implemented in 2012, each Executive Officer, Dean or Director of a major operating unit may also elect to submit performance ratings for staff members. Performance ratings may be entered in the columns to the far right of the pay rate change template spreadsheet that is a part of the file-attach method. Procedures and templates for the file-attach method can be found in My LINC at Wolverine Access <http://wolverineaccess.umich.edu/>.
