Petals of Worth

For this practice, think about characteristics that you value about yourself, which have nothing to do with appearance. Perhaps you are funny, a good listener, smart, a hard-worker and so forth. If you have trouble coming up with your positive attributes think about compliments you have received, (which have nothing to do with your body). Label each petal, with one of your attributes.