2021 University Contribution for Retiree Health Plan Costs

Date of Service Prior to January 1, 2013
Retire On or After January 1, 2021

The university shares the monthly cost for U-M Health Plan coverage with eligible faculty, staff and retirees who are enrolled in the plans. For faculty and staff with a service date prior to January 1, 2013 and retiring on or after January 1, 2021, eligibility for university contributions toward health plan coverage will include a service requirement in addition to fulfilling the points needed to retire.

Effective January 1, 2021, faculty and staff with a service date prior to January 1, 2013 will need 80 points or more (points = age + years of eligible service) to retire, and will also need 20 or more years of eligible service to receive the maximum 80% university contribution for retiree health plan coverage and 50% for dependent coverage. In addition, retirees with a date of service on or after July 1, 1988 pay the full cost of all U-M benefits plans through and including the month they turn age 62. Follow the diagram to direct you to the university health plan contribution that applies to you.
